

“Twenty-five Years of Analytical Excellence”

Analytical excellence is something that all laboratories across the country and the world are faced with in dealing with the challenges to provide testing methodology for protection of the environment, food supply, health and safety. Scientists must address the challenges in providing excellent analytical services to their customers that is fast, precise and accurate.

Join us for our 25th Annual Meeting as we provide our members with excellent analytical resources. Our goal is to provide the tools necessary to deal successfully with the analytical demands we all face.

Registration Fees
